Cooking Demo and Tasting with Sara Monick

On Monday, October 26th twenty Mill City Commons members joined cooking whiz Sara Monick for a demonstration and tasting of fantastic small plate cuisine, including Gorgonzola and Pine Nut Canapés and Smoked Salmon Sandwiches with Ginger Butter. One member commented, "Sara did a great job of selecting the menu and then pulling off the demonstration with such flare and confidence...I do believe that [the demo] was one of Mill City Commons' most successful events." A big thank you to the evening's hosts, MCC Members Tom and Mary Racciatti!

Upcoming Indian Cooking Demo

Be sure to sign up for the next MCC cooking demo- Crazy about Curry with Om Restaurant's Raghavan Iyer! For details and to register click here.

"Entangled Strings" Opening Reception. Thursday, November 12th, 5-8 pm. Nina Bliese Gallery.

Mill District community member and photographer Gary Smaby invites you to his newest exhibit, "Entangled Strings." For more than forty years, Gary Smaby's artistic eye has peered through a camera lens; capturing memorable images that run the gamut from classical portraiture to experimental media. This show examines how our perception of ordinary things might be altered if the 'immutable' laws of Newton and Einstein are indeed as impermanent and illusionary as professed by Buddhist scholars for millennia. Gary's talk begins at 6:45 pm. For more information please visit: <http://www.ninabliesegallery.com/exhibitioncalendar2009.html>
